

Making a Christmas Wreath

garden
greenery

Wrap the wire around the frame in a
zig zag fashion.
This will hold the
greenery.

Beginning life as evergreen cast offs in the 16th century, the traditional Christmas wreath has become as much a seasonal symbol as the tree. Representing eternal life by its shape, the Advent wreath symbolically represents the Christian values of joy, hope, peace and love.

Making a wreath doesn't need to be expensive. Use what you have in your garden. There's something satisfying about making something yourself - and it can be a great way to spend time with others.

Start placing
the greenery
onto the wire
frame, tying
it on with the wire as you go.

Add some flowers and make it look as full
as you would like.
